Before we get to the park, there is a previous stop: The Train of the End of the World.

Those who wish to take this optional ride will be making the same way prisoners made many years ago, logging down trees and collecting firewood for the small old town of Ushuaia. It is important to bear in mind that The Train of the End of the World tour is optional from the excursion to the Park, and must be taken only one-way since when the ride finishes, at the National Park station, our guide will be waiting for you to continue the excursion in our vehicle.

Once at Tierra del Fuego National Park we will visit Ensenada Zaratiegui, where you can observe the most typical species of this sub-antartic wood, such as: Lengas, Ñires, Coihues, some bushes like Calafate and Michay, Canelos and the so-called "Old man's beard". There will be some stops during the trip to enjoy the panoramic views and take pictures.

Then, we will continue towards Verde Lagoon and Lapataia Bay, where some peat bogs and beaver dams can be watched. There will be a final stop at Roca Lake (or Acigami Lake) and, from there, we will go back to the city.
