After breakfast, you will visit the Jade Buddha Temple which is one of the top ten tourist attractions in Shanghai. The two jade Buddha statues enshrined here come from Myanmar. One jade Buddha is in a sitting position, and the other is lying on his side. Both Buddha statues are decorated with gems, pearls, etc., which are very beautiful and delicate. In the Jade Buddha Temple, in addition to worshipping Buddha statues and admiring ancient Buddhist temple architecture, you can also buy some Buddhist-related souvenirs, including crystal hand beads, porcelain statues of Buddha, various wood carvings, and Chinese calligraphy and painting.

After that, you will visit Yu Garden (closed each Monday). It is a classical garden that a government officer specially built for his parents as a place to enjoy their tranquil and happy retired time. It was built in 1559 and opened to the public in 1961. The architectural style of Yu Garden is a typical Chinese classical garden style, with pavilions, lakes, rockery, and stone carvings. The Huxin Pavilion here is a good place to taste Chinese tea, and you will also have the opportunity to enjoy the traditional Chinese tea ceremony here.

After lunch, you will visit the Nanjing Road. The main shopping street of China, Nanjing Road, 5.5 km long, begins at the Bund in the east and ends at the west at the intersection of Jing'an Temple and West Yan'an Street. Today, it is a must-see metropolitan destination attracting thousands of fashion-conscious consumers from around the world.

Later you will take a walk at The Bund, which is a famous waterfront area and known as the symbol of Shanghai. The total length of the bund is 1.5 km, starting from Yan'an East Road in the south to Waibaidu bridge on the Suzhou River in the north. This is the best place to take photos.
